SHORT BUT SWEET:

An out-of-towner in New York at the height of the tourist season decided to revisit an uptown restaurant he'd enjoyed on a previous trip to the city. Finally catching the eye of an overworked waiter, he said, "You know, it's been over five years since I first came in here." "You'll have to wait your turn, sir," replied the busy waiter. "I can only serve one table at a time."

SOME THOUGHTS FOR THE WEEK:

"We are going to be free. We know we are going to be free. When we are free, we will remember who helped us to become free."

Bishop Tutu

"Your peace is more important than driving yourself crazy trying to understand why something happened the way it did. Let it go."

Mandy Hale

"Successful people demonstrate their resilience through their dedication to making progress every day, even if that progress is marginal."

Jonathan Mills

"A slip of the foot you may soon recover, but a slip of the tongue you may never get over."

Ben Franklin

"When things get awfully tiring, seek for silence, most of the time the loudest lessons are learned at the most quiet corners of our hearts."

Kuya Rene

"Life is all about balance... Too much and too little can kill... The best way to balance life is settling your boundaries and learning to say enough..."

Mam Melissa

"Life is never about how bravely you struggle. Oftentimes, it can be about how willingly you surrender. Allow God to embrace you just as you are, and let His love heal you and make you the beautiful person that He made you to be..."

Tita Jonalyn
